

United States Geospatial Intelligence Foundation 2019 Awards Program

About

The USGIF Awards Program annually recognizes the exceptional work of the geospatial intelligence tradecraft's brightest minds and innovative organizations. Highlighting the achievements of those within the global GEOINT Community, the awards program also boosts morale, inspires the community, and increases interest in the field.

Previous USGIF award winners represent the multi-faceted GEOINT Community, and their work has embodied USGIF's three pillars: Build the Community; Advance the Tradecraft; Accelerate Innovation.

Individuals and organizations engaged in GEOINT-related fields including nontraditional technologies and capabilities—whether in social media, open source, Big Data, Internet of Things, data analytics, ISR, mobile, virtual and augmented reality, or others—are encouraged to apply.

Application

To nominate or apply (self-nominations are accepted), select the applicable award category and answer the four questions as indicated.

All award application submissions must be UNCLASSIFIED.

Applications should be completed and submitted to awards@usgif.org on or before the awards deadline of March 7.

Selection Process

The USGIF Awards Subcommittee is made up of a standing committee and a group of volunteers selected each year. These volunteers are USGIF Individual Members or employees of a USGIF Organizational Member. Volunteers are selected based on their prompt response to a USGIF call for volunteers, as well as their availability to commit to a strict review process timeline. USGIF is not involved in the selection process. Award winners are selected based on the review and evaluation criteria below.

Review and Evaluation

Nominations are evaluated on the quality of the answers to each of the four application questions. However, there are common threads that truly characterizes each of the past USGIF award recipients, and you are encouraged to keep these points in mind as you are writing your nomination:

- Previous winners have all articulated how the achievement—whether it be a program, technology, research, or support activity—advances and promotes the GEOINT tradecraft and its broader impact on the community.
- Winners have illustrated how the innovative technologies or leading edge research have an actual effect or potential effect (in the case of research nominations) on mission or mission requirements.

Notifications

The committee will notify winners if they have been selected. Recipients will be presented their awards on the main stage at the general session at the GEOINT 2019 Symposium, June 2-5 at the Henry B. González Convention Center, San Antonio, Texas. The exact date and time of the awards presentation will be provided when winners are notified of selection.

Those nominations that were not chosen as award recipients will be notified by email after the winners are selected.

United States Geospatial Intelligence Foundation 2019 Awards Program Nomination Form MILITARY

This award recognizes exceptional GEOINT accomplishments by an individual or team from the military service branches or the Department of Defense that contributes to the increased effectiveness of national security. Geospatial intelligence has become a must-have for mission planning, rehearsal, action, decision-making, and more. From the services down to the units, interesting and important GEOINT activities are taking place and deserve wide recognition. All U.S. and international military groups are encouraged to apply.
